'You will smell it, hear it and feel it'

Sewage plant protesters organize against plant's location

By David Weller

Southport residents living in the Gregory Rd area are organizing their fight against a 141 acre sewage treatment plant being proposed for their neighborhood.

Sixty people appeared at a meeting at the Turner Branch library Monday evening held to inform them of issues surrounding the plant, and to convince them to involve themselves in the fight against proposed location.

The plant is designed to handle the wastes from the city, and from the proposed MacMillan Bloedel recycling plant in Southport.

"We were asleep. This was in the plan a long time ago," said Southport homeowner Sam Turner, who was the primary speaker.

A flyer distributed at the meeting reads, "We urge you to get involved. The plant will effect your lifestyle as much as the people who live across the street from it. You will smell it, hear it and feel the traffic congestion."

The tone of the meeting was somewhat less confrontational than the literature. "Our number one concern it to convince the City Council to direct staff to look at every other option," Turner said.

Organizers encouraged people to circulate petitions calling on the city to study unpopulated locations and to keep the option of hooking up to the Sacramento County Regional facility open.

They plan to have at least one hundred signatures by the end of the weekend, and to present the petition to the council next Wednesday.

As part of his presentation, Turner showed video-tapes he took of a plant in Tahoe and one in Woodland. He said he visited the Tahoe plant because city staff told him that it was a similar design to the proposed Southport facility. He went to Woodland because it is similar in size to the proposed West Sacramento plant.

At both plants he reported that there is a buffer between residential development and facility which would not exist for current residents in the Southport location. The plants both have large holding ponds on the property.

About the Woodland location, he said, "There is not a lot of smell, but you know your at sewage treatment plant."

About the option of hooking up to the regional plant in Sacramento County, Turner pointed out that the facility is covered, which eliminates air quality con-

City Councilman Wes Beers was in the audience, and fielded many questions from other audience members. When asked about the possibility of hooking up to the regional facility, he said that "fierce competition" with Sacramento over business development is a concern when West Sacramento has to consider giving up local control to a regional board.

Beers also stressed the fact that no decision has been made on how to handle the city's future sewage treatment needs.

School district deciding how to spend $270,000

By Steve Marschke

How do you spend $270,000?

That's a question that will face the Washington Unified School District Tuesday evening. The state of California has informed local districts that it will release the one-time money based on unexpected revenues, and calculated according to each district's average daily attendance.

Districts are expected to receive about $53 per student, and the money can only be spent on "non-recurring" expenses such as materials, deferred maintenance and educational technology.

If the money is used for personnel, it would have to be in the form of bonuses and not salary.

"But the board is not looking at that," said Jim Sweeney, the W.U.S.D. assistant superintendent in charge of finance. "The board wants all the money to go to the classrooms."

The board will consider how to spend the money at its regular meeting beginning at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, in the city council chambers located at 7 p.m. Public comment will be allowed.

Father and son indicted in theft of money from post office

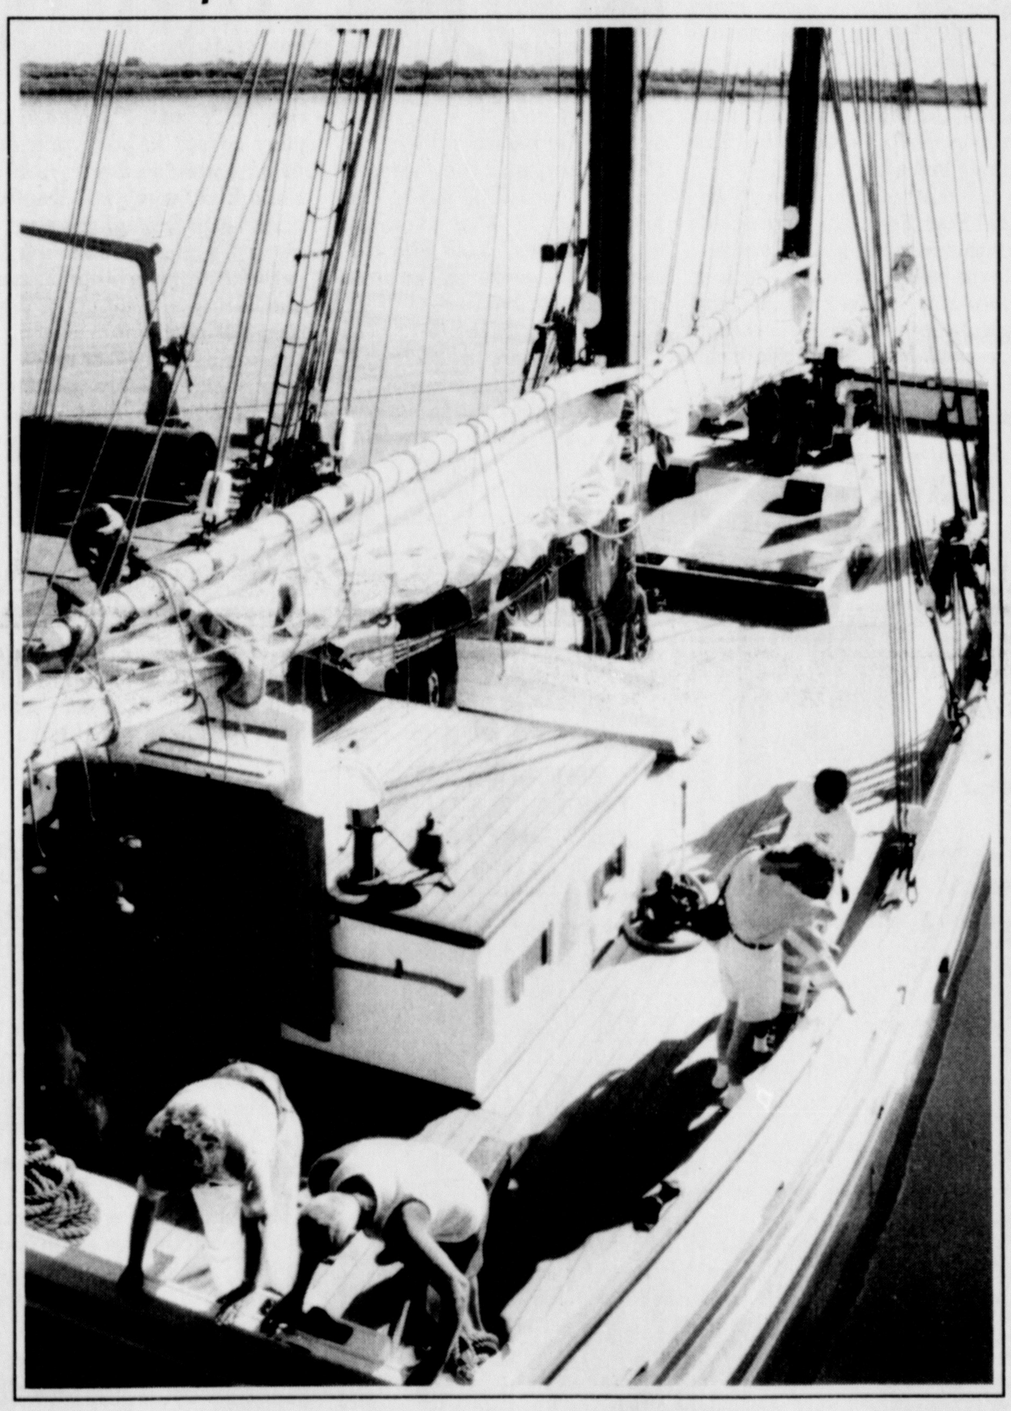

Glenn Gleason, an 11-year postal employee, and his son, Lynn Gleason, were charged Friday for the June 25 theft of $188,702 from the regional mail processing center, the Sacramento Bee has reported.

Postal inspectors recovered $72,150 on August 5. $50,000 is still missing, and the son says that he burned all the checks on the day of the theft. They believe the younger Gleason spent $13,000 and knows the whereabouts of more.

According to the Bee, Glenn Gleason claims he organized the theft to illustrate lax security at the Industrial Blvd. mail sorting center. His son may have had a different agenda, prosecutors believe.

Glenn Gleason lives in Sacramento and his son, an unemployed mechanic, lives in Carmichael.

'Windpowered workhorse'

Visitors stroll the aft deck of the century-old schooner "Alma," docked at the Port of Sacramento for last weekend's PortFest '95. Thousands of people came to PortFest to tour ships, watch boxing, listen to music, play in sandboxes and check out displays from local organizations.

Methadone center needs a different permit, says West Sacto City Council

By David Weller

The West Sacramento city council decided unanimously last week that the addition of methadone treatment services to the John G. Jones Community Clinic does require a conditional use permit.

The decision means that the applicants will again have to come before the planning commission, which will have to decide whether or not to grant the permit.

The clinic hopes to provide methadone treatment for up to 50 heroin addicts at its Riverbend Shopping Center facility.

The planning commission decided last month that a permit was not required. Councilman Bill Kristoff appealed the decision to the council, which decided that possible impacts on the area dictated the need for a permit.

Choosing a spot for a new high school

■ District hoping third time will be the charm for a bond measure to build a new high school, taking the load off the aging River City High School

By Steve Marschke

The school board governing Washington Unified will be asked to choose a site for a new high school on Tuesday, as part of a plan to get ready for another school bond measure for a public vote in 1996.

"The feeling is you can't ask people to dig into their pockets (through a bond measure) unless they know where the school is going to be, how many students it will hold, and what's going to be in it," said Dennis Kelleher, the district's assistant superintendent in charge of personnel.

Kelleher is a staff liaison for a school site search committee chaired by resident Constantine Baranoff, who is employed as a facilities planner for Elk Grove School District. Also on the search committee are city council member Cindy Tuttle, developer Dan Ramos, River City High School principal Donna White, and a handful of other citizens and employees of the district, as well as a student representative.

Kelleher explained that River City High School, which is located on Clarendon Street west of Park Blvd., now holds "about 1,100 students and is bursting at the seams.

"It is too small and the site is not large enough to accommodate all the students we plan on having," added Kelleher, saying that development is expected to bring with it a need to house almost 2,000 students.

The district is looking for a 50-acre site for the new school. Two bond measures aimed at funding a new high school have failed in recent years.

The sites under serious consideration are all in Southport (West Sacramento's southern half, below the barge canal), because that is where the only large chunks of land are located

Corrections and an update

Virginia Seamans found a couple of errors in last week's article about the aquatic work-out program she has developed.

First, her husband was not a principal at James Marshall High School, but taught there for many years. "My husband, Dr. Theodore E. Seamans never aspired to be a principal, but rather he enjoyed interacting with the high school population at Woodland High for three semesters, and then at James Marshall from its inception until he retired more than two decades later," she said.

In addition, Seamans has never been diagnosed with osteoporosis--her exercises are designed to help prevent osteoporosis. She suffers from osteo-arthritis and sciatica.

On the brighter side, Seamans reports that a News Ledger reader whose doctor has recommended water exercises contacted her on the day the article appeared. The woman is now coming to Seaman's house to learn the exercises.

"It was very gratifying to me that someone picked up on this. She was delighted when she saw the article," said Seamans.

An article in last week's News-Ledger detailed a trip to be taken by Aaron Parbs to Australia as part of a work exchange program involving the California Conservation Corps. Unfortunately, half of the last sentence of that article was inadvertantly deleted.

The last sentence should have read:

"The California Conservation Corps is a state agency providing women and men, ages 18-23, training and work in resources protection, wildlife habitat improvement, building renovation, and other projects, both urban and rural."

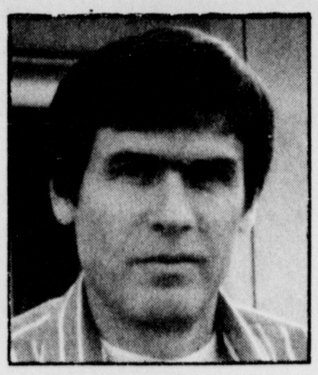

The News-Ledger apologizes for the error.

A note to all those readers who gleefully pointed out a typographical error in a front page, Aug. 30 headline involving a close call for a local fire official. Somehow, an extra vowel made it into the word "help."

Thanks for the phone calls. We appreciate your hielp.

Never date a woman whose ex is named 'Bonecrusher'

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

I was thumbing through the Sacramento Bee a few weeks ago when I came across an article by Chicago Tribune columnist Cheryl Lavin entitled, "You should never date a man who...." Apparently, Ms. Lavin invites her readers to write to her with suggestions on that topic and then she prints their responses from time to time in her column. A few of the `fill in the blank' answers she has recently received are:

Never date a man who only wants to take you to restaurants where he has two-for-one coupons.

Never date a man who brags about how good-looking his ex-girlfriend was.

Never date a man who thinks pornography is art.

Never date a man who tucks his shirt into his underpants.

Never date a man who answers the phone during sex.

Anyway, after I had finished going through the fifty or so reader responses she mentioned in her column, it suddenly dawned on me that it might be fun to ask my West Sacramento readers the same question. But since I don't really know if I have any readers -- and if I do, I'm almost certain that none of them would be willing to shell out 32 cents to drop me a line -- I decided to more or less come up with my own answers -- and of course to modify the question a tad. So here goes:

Never date a woman who has to chemically remove her mustache more than twice a week.

Never date a woman who has the telephone number of her psychiatrist on speed-dial.

Never date a woman who has attended an A.C. Cowlings autograph signing session.

Never date a woman whose favorite book is "Men Are From Mars, Women Are From Venus."

Never date a woman whose friends all lovingly call her 'Stinky'.

Never date a woman who says she is looking forward to squirting breast milk at you when she becomes pregnant.

Never date a woman who won't let you have total control of the TV clicker.

Never date a woman who has her best girlfriend's name tattooed on her hip.

Never date a woman who says she often clips her toenails with her teeth.

Never date a woman who thinks Dear Abby actually knows what the hell she's talking about.

Never date a woman whose business card reads, "Horoscopes by Denise."

Never date a woman whose ex-boyfriend's nickname is 'Bone-crusher'.

Never date a woman who religiously stays up to date on all the improvements in liposuction procedures.

Never date a woman who has a first place mud-wrestling trophy proudly displayed on top of her fireplace mantle.

Never date a woman whose father could fix everything around the house.

Never date a woman who says 'love-making is something I like to do AFTER I have a good time, not something I like to do FOR a good time.'

Never date a woman who has absolutely convinced herself that she is nothing like her mother.

Never date a woman who likes to watch Lawrence Welk re-runs on channel 6.

Never date a woman who swears she'll ride one of those expensive exercise bikes if you just buy it for her.

Never date a woman who has a purse full of coupons for Depends Undergarments.

Never date a woman who spends more than one hour a night on the Psychic Hot-Line.

And finally, never date a woman whose favorite song is "I Am Woman -- Hear Me Roar."

'Petting a silk chicken' and other family PortFest adventures

T.J. Smoot

'T.J. Smoot' is the pen name of a neighbor of yours who prefers to toil anonymously.

Last Saturday I got fingerprinted by a West Sacramento Police Officer. I was just minding my own business at the Port of Thacather, when BAM! Out came the pepper spray and the billy jack. Or was it garlic spray and a billy goat? Well...it wasn't technically a full fledged officer...it was a cadet. I have to admit I found it somewhat traumatic. O.K. it wasn't actually me who found it so traumatic because it didn't happen to me. But my kids did fuss a little when they got inked. Alright...my three year old son didn't mind the ink, but my 19-month old daughter almost had to be restrained and read her Miranda rights. But once she got her blue balloon, she calmed down. She can be bribed.

We attended our third annual Port Fest, and I must admit this one was the best one yet. Maybe because the fall morning was picture perfect. We motored down cool, shady, tree-laned streets and entered through the back Port gate. It seemed like every other person wore a "Port Police" hat, and they were all smiles (I would be too at time and a half). We started our day by visiting the Yolo Shortline caboose and pestered the attendant with serious questions like "Is this really a caboose? Does it work? Where are the seatbelts?"

I'm sure a roundtrip ride on that line from Woodland to West Sac would make a premier Smoot article, that is, if graciously funded by a benevolent editor. The kiddos had their first pony ride, and I swear a tiny pony cursed in pony telepathy when I wondered to myself if I could heft up my 203 lbs. for a brisk jaunt around the ring.

On we went to the petting corral where among other animals, one bunny and a pair of Japanese Silk chickens braved many tiny hands. I've never really petted a chicken before, let alone a Japanese Silk chicken. It was an experience I shall treasure for many, many minutes.

Upon leaving I noted replacement animals in cages outside the corral, no doubt on Prozac in preparation for their turn in the "coliseum."

Then there was a square dancing Carl's Jr. Happy Star, and we convinced her to pose kneeling with our kiddos. Happy had bad knees and had to be helped up by her watchful assistants. Our kids got lots of helium balloons and promptly returned them to the ionosphere.

Later we discovered that the US Army Corps of Engineers doesn't have control of the lock near Jefferson Blvd, even though they have a station ten feet from the bridge. CalTrans showed off their snow blowing equipment as well as their automated roadsign which welcomed guests to the Fest, but upon reading the greeting, all I felt was an urge to stop and install chains. Even the West Sacramento paddy wagon was on display. I didn't even know we had a paddy wagon. I was impressed. Are there any paddys in West Sac? Speaking of the police department, they had their automatic speed sign trailer thingamabob on display. Strangely enough it read 35 mph with only foot traffic around. I wonder if you get spotted 35 mph when you're clocked on the road?

We didn't see the Mexican destroyer this year but didn't miss it much (it used to be the USS Petunia or something you know). Maybe it was out on patrol keeping the Baja coast safe from Serbian submarines. In its place floated a nice big tug boat with a big tug guy answering questions about tug times.

There were lots of places to get food, and we chose the Siam BBQ for a tantalizing Asian lunch with some kind of marinated meat. Good conversation was had with The West Sacramento Historical Society/Sailing Club representative, and we enjoyed the live bands.

Things to add for next year? Free helicopter rides (yeah, right), fire extinguishing demonstrations, those vibrating foot machines, more trashcans, and more shady places to sit and eat. It was a lot of fun, full of good value and lots of local color. We'll be back next year, and I'll make sure my kiddos are on their best behavior so as to not be fingerprinted again.

Senior class edges fellow students at River City's first pep rally of the year

By Tony Venditti
River City High School

On Friday, September 8, River City held its first rally of the school year, honoring the Renaissance Program. The rally was held to announce and celebrate River City's new Renaissance members.

Patiently waiting for the rally to begin, the classes sat proudly as they displayed their respective colors. The freshman class' green shirts could be seen for miles. The mighty sophomores' orange could not be ignored. The juniors' decorations gallantly covered their section with turquoise. The reigning seniors of '96 showed their pride in flaunting their regal purple.

The rally began with the traditional senior walk. The seniors marched to the Boyz II Men tune, "Yesterday." Throughout the rally, the freshmen were in awe over the combined spirit coming from the other three classes. The seniors, who've won all but one rally and came away with the legendary spirit wheel last year, won the rally -- and by a tight margin, with the juniors coming in second, the sophomores third, and the freshmen fourth.

The Renaissance program is designed to recognize and promote academic excellence. This is done by rewarding Renaissance members.

SPORTS

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The 49ers and the Dallas Cowboys survived big scares this weekend in the NFL. The Niners had to come back in the second half of their game with New England to score twenty-one unanswered points to win 28-3.

The Cowboys (3-0), on the other hand, have had to go into overtime to beat the Vikings in Minnesota 23-17. The Raiders weren't so fortunate in their overtime loss to the 3-0 Kansas City Chiefs.

This week, the 11-point favorite 49ers (3-0) travel to Detroit to play the 0-3 Lions on Monday Night Football. The Cowboys will entertain the Arizona Cardinals as a two-touchdown favorite in Dallas. The Raiders (2-1), who are 7-point favorites, will return to Oakland on Sunday at 1 p.m. to play the Philadelphia Eagles (1-2).

The Sacramento Kings made a great trade with Seattle to bring shooting guard Sarunas Marciulionis and forward Byron Houston to Sacramento for Frank Brickowski, who was injured all last year with a shoulder problem. This move gives the Kings another shooter when Mitch Richmond comes out of the game. Marciulionis, the 6-5 guard, was injured last year with a broken right leg, but just returned from playing in Europe this summer averaging 22 points.

The Sacramento Knights (18-6) clinched a playoff spot as well as winning the Western Division title for their first time in the CISL history. The Knights beat San Diego last Thursday 5-4 and clinched the title on Saturday with a victory with over 10,000 fans in attendance. The Knights have four games remaining, travelling to Las Vegas and Portland before returning to the Arco Arena for their last regular season home game on Thursday, Sept. 28, against Seattle.

This Saturday, Sept. 23, boxing promoter Don Chargin brings to the Sacramento Convention Center on J Street a WBC title bout between champion Alejandro Gonzalez and Manuel Medina, a former champ. The bout will start at noon and feature 36 rounds of boxing. Tickets are priced $25, $35 and $65 for ringside.

Speaking of boxing, did you catch that great fight between Julio Cesar Chavez and undefeated David Kamau? If you saw the action, you witnessed Chavez's 96th victory in 98 fights and it moved him closer to his goal of 100 wins!

See ya next week!!

Raiders win 45-14

League seeks players, coaches for flag football

Youth Flag Football will be starting another exciting season of play on Saturday, September 30, at the Alyce Norman/Bryte playfields. Sponsored by the City of West Sacramento Parks and Community Services Department, this coed program runs through November 18.

Teams are comprised of youth in grades 3-6 from local elementary and middle schools. Coached by volunteers, the teams play games on Saturday afternoons. Practices are held after school, on school fields, at times determined by the coaches.

In fact, the parks and recreation department is currently seeking volunteers for coaching. All coaches receive an informational packet, and training is provided. Staff will also be available to coaches at all games.

If you are interested in becoming a coach for a local team, or would like to sign your child up for this program, please contact the department at 373-5860.

Colfax defeats RCHS frosh football

By Chuck Robinson

Last Thursday at home, the River City High School Freshman Football team played hard but couldn't pull off a win against a very strong Colfax team and lost 21 to 6.

It was a scoreless game at the end of the first quarter. Colfax scored on a 10-yard pass to end the half Colfax 6, River City 0. In the third quarter, Colfax scored on a 23-yard run and ran the conversion to lead, 14 to 0. Colfax scored again on a 3-yard run and the kick was good to lead, 21 to 0. River City refused to be shut-out and scored on a pass play from quarterback Felix Timas for a 62-yard pass to Malcom Floyd, to end the scoring at River City 6, Colfax 21.

Rushing for River City was Malcom Floyd, 23 yards; Felix Timas, 22 yards; Afredo Rodriguez, 21 yards; Dominique Alpers, 19 yards; William Snow, 10 yards; and Adam Wickliffe, 1 yard.

Defense was led by Dominique Alpers, 8 tackles, 7 assists; Felix Timas, 6 tackles, 5 assists; Ben Ochoa, 5 tackles, 3 assists; Malcom Floyd, 6 tackles, 1 assist; Ricky Santos, 3 tackles, 2 assists, 1 fumble recovery; Afredo Rodriguez, 4 assists, 2 fumble recoveries; William Snow, 3 tackles, 1 assist, 1 fumble recovery; and Adam Wickliffe, 2 tackles, 4 assists, 1 knock-down pass.

Head Coach Chris Baker said, "I was disappointed with the loss, but that is what happens when you play such a strong team as Colfax. But we will still be in there fighting."

This Thursday, the Raiders will play at home against Vanden. Game time is 6 p.m. Thanks for the nice crowd we had last week; we hope to see you back in the stands this week.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Yes, West Sacramento can put on a good time

Two weekends ago, the West Sacramento Parks and Community Services Department sponsored its third annual music festival at the First Nationwide Bank complex.

Spectators reported that it was another well-done event, although as of the time of this publication the financial results are not yet in. The festival is intended as a fund-raiser for the department's youth programs.

The parks and community services department shares money from the city general fund with the police and fire department, and guess which department has been cut first during the recent lean years. . .

Needless to say, the parks department's youth programs can use the cash, and hopefully, they make a little this year.

As a side benefit, the festival is a pretty good public relations event, helping the city show off its better side and improve its tarnished image in the region. Many of the visitors to the city for the festival get to see a clean, pleasant and businesslike part of West Sacramento for the first time, helping to temper their image of the city as a festering nest of crime, drugs and prostitution.

Last weekend, the city and its resident port, the Port of Sacramento, hosted PortFest '95, a celebration of ships, rides, music, sports and information booths.

Attendance and exhibits both seemed down this year, but it was still a good time.

Although it's a safe bet that the event was started for one political reason -- to make Sacramento aware that it had an international port, and therefore to help garnish support for it -- the festival could well grow into something more.

The music festival and PortFest combined showed that West Sacramento can put on a good time.

There are very few truly evil, scheming, conspiracy-hatching people in West Sacramento.

But from the looks of every debate that comes along in the city, you wouldn't know it.

From the "Cheaper!" debate to the low income housing issue, it has never taken more than a few seconds for a rational discussion of the issues to degenerate to name-calling, insinuation and vilification.

If the city's first enemy is apathy (considering how few people vote or otherwise get involved), its second enemy would have to be this coarse, underlying vein of nastiness which has achieved public acceptance in West Sacramento. Just look at any of our political campaigns.

Shouldn't it be O.K. sometimes just to disagree? Must the other fellow always have a vile, underlying motive? Couldn't we get more done if we listened a little, tried to understand the other fellow's point of view, and stuck to the issues?

(Sure, you mutter under your breath, "when pigs fly". . .)

Letters to the Editor

Elitist skunks

My late father often told me, "Don't get in a P--sing contest with a skunk," but here goes anyway.

The News-Ledger issue of September 16 carried my letter indicating that perhaps the Maple/Holly area could benefit by the election of local representatives by district, as opposed to the current "at large" system.

I was pleasantly surprised to see the News-Ledger devote nearly half of its editorial page to de-bunk district representation, I was not surprised to see the continued display off "elitism" that prevails in the editorial attitude of this publication.

The editor suggests that the neighborhoods north of West Capitol Avenue would elect inadequate or inferior candidates. I wonder if only this newspaper would be qualified to determine which are "adequate" or "superior."

The editorial also indicated that the present system was responsive to the needs of the Maple/Holly residents by virtue of the appearance of city officials at the meeting. I maintain that it indicates further "management by crisis."

The editorial also gave as an example, the question of where to place a low-income housing development, and how a representative body might decide the question. I wonder why the present system decided to place the low-income housing in the Maple/Holly neighborhood instead of Park Boulevard or Southport.

Why are the "elitists" so frightened of the "Northerners?"

Districting

Should West Sacramento's charter be changed to require district elections of city council members? Rather than being able to vote for all five members (at large) to represent the entire city, each voter could then vote only for (or against) their member once every four years. Nowadays we vote for or against three or two of our city council members every two years...sounds like a much healthier potential.

But we understand that all five present city council members now reside south of Business 80; i.e., none reside north of West Capitol Avenue. This is why, many feel, a disproportionate share of NIMBY/"not in my back yard" projects tend to develop north of Business 80/West Capitol Avenue.

A majority of potential voters seem to located north of Business 80, so if lines were drawn according to population of the present times, that area might receive three of our five seats, but it seems likely the third seat would serve some folks south of Business 80. It would depend largely on how many voters are in our Southport area as to where the lines of the "middle district" would be drawn. But after another bridge is built to/from our Southport area, watch the population proportion shift southward.

So even with district elections, our Broderick/Bryte area would seem to gain the upper hand temporarily, the swing vote would still come from the "mid-city" council vote, but what would trigger a new census and thus, redrawing the lines? And how often...every 10 years, or more often?

And would not local taxpayers foot the bill for special censuses as we do with special elections?

Our Lighthouse Marina (without the marina, now) project appears to be too-high-priced-to-sell and thus a failure so far. And replacement of low-income housing in our north area from the destruction of much substandard housing therefrom is controversial at best. Hindsight wishes we never began Lighthouse in the first place, including the millions of investment dollars.

District representation (vs. at-large, as we now have) will call for more "package deals" at city council meetings. This could equal no NIMBY for one district unless another district's rep agrees to its NIMBY. District elections, anyone?

PortFest '95

The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce joined the Port of Sacramento and other organizations presenting the PortFestival at the facility's West Sacramento location. Although a chamber official could not be reached to provide attendance figures, it seemed to several visitors the crowd was down a bit from previous years. Regardless, there was plenty to do. . .

For $25, some visitors chose a quick helicopter flight over the Port and part of West Sacramento.

How to put your old family recipe on the shelves of the marketplace

All the realities of getting a specialty or gourmet food product from the kitchen to the marketplace are covered in "Getting Started in the Specialty Food Business," a two-day workshop from University Extension, UC Davis. Topics include establishing and financing a business, processing your product, determining consumer demand, pricing and promotion, brokers and distributors, sourcing ingredients, and packaging and product testing.

The principal instructors are Shermain Hardesty, principal of the Food Market and Economics Group in Davis, and George York, emeritus Cooperative Extension specialist in the UC Davis Department of Food Science and Technology. Other speakers include brokers, copackers and other food industry experts. The program also includes a panel of experienced northern California specialty food entrepreneurs, who will discuss their successes as well as potential pitfalls to avoid.

The workshop takes place Saturday, between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Sunday, between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., November 4 and 5, in Rohnert Park; February 24 and 25 on the UC Davis campus; and May 18 and 19 in Monterey.

The fees are $345 for the Rohnert Park and Davis workshops and $365 for the Monterey workshop, which include all instruction, resource materials, course text, an evening social and two lunches.

Fat? Sick and Tired?

So was I. Overweight, suffering from chronic fatigue, experiencing hair loss, anxiety resulting in heart palpitations, and poor diet attached to a high stress work environment, blah, blah, blah. . . (Sound familiar?)

Well, today I have lost over 50 lbs., I weigh what I did as a high school junior nearly 18 years ago, the hair loss has stopped, the heart problems have ceased, my diet has greatly improved, and I no longer experience the high stress in virtually the same line of business.

This may not work for everyone, but if you want to know how to get off the track to a short life-span and one that may add years to a more productive and healthier life, simply call (800) 836-9180. I will send you a free tape, and personally return your call.

I wouldn't be offering this product to you if I hadn't used it for over 1 1/2 years and believed in it myself.

On Casselman, a person reported hearing noises and voices in a house that was supposed to be vacant while the woman who lived there was out of town. No vehicles or people were seen. A caller reported that an apparently mentally ill woman was talking to herself and "going to the bathroom. . . and not just urinating" in a parking lot on Merkley Ave. Police determined that the woman had exited through the side door of a nearby supermarket, setting off its alarm. Sept. 17, 6:35 p.m.

A 19-year old woman reported that a man in his early 20s driving a two-door car had followed her and offered her money to "make out" with him. Police did not find the man.

Incantatory luminescence: Eliot recites 'The Wasteland'

POETRY

THE CAEDMON TREASURY OF MODERN POETS READING THEIR OWN POETRY

2 cassettes. 1 hr. 35 min.

Punk rock, grunge, acid jazz. For pure existential angst none can touch the originator of understated verbal surrealism, T.S. Eliot, reading his masterpiece "The Wasteland." This collection of classics from Caedmon includes poets W.B. Yeats, Dylan Thomas, Robert Graves, Robert Frost, Edith Sitwell and Wallace Stevens reading their own work. What could be better?

CHILDREN'S

THE INDIAN IN THE CUPBOARD

Lynne Reid Banks.

3 cassettes. 4 hrs. 22 min.

Read by the author, this is the original of the story made into a big-budget kids' movie last summer. Very entertaining, in the author's British accent.

FICTION

SHOELESS JOE

W.P. Kinsella

Six 1 1/2 hr. cassettes.

Remember "Field of Dreams," the film that made Kevin Costner a star? Here is the original book on which it was based, read by Tom Parker, complete and unabridged. Ask any fan of Kinsella's about his stories and novels, and you'll hear about the author's passionate dedication to humanity, truth, memory and magic. This is his first novel, a tale of baseball and dreams.

PHILOSOPHY

THE TEACHINGS OF DON JUAN: A Yaqui Way of Knowledge

Carlos Castaneda

2 cassettes. Three hours.

Here are the seminal words of Carlos Castaneda read by renowned stage and film actor Peter Coyote. A case could be made that the 1968 publication of this book about peyote and wisdom gave birth to the modern New Age movement.

Victorino Rodarte was held to answer in the Superior Court last Wednesday by Judge Barry on a charge of burglary. He was caught leaving Bill Campbell's cabin with Bills earthly possessions and was arested by Joe Beltrami. A companion of Rodarte made his escape and has not been captured. Rodarte told the court he had been smoking some sort of Mexican dope weed, and did not know what he was about at the time of his arrest. While being pursued by the officers, he threw away a can of the weed, which was picked up later. He said he threw it away because he believed if it was found in his possession he would be sent to jail.

CEBRIAN MAKES VALUABLE GIFT TO STATE UNIVERSITY

Announcement has been made by the State University authorities that Mr. Juan C. Cebrian, owner of the Caledonian Farms in West Sacramento, now traveling in Spain, presented to the Regents 728 volumes of Spanish works, many of which complete several sets of periodicals now in the University library.

The list comprises more than 100 volumes on science, among which there is a treatise on agriculture of the twelfth century. There are also works on general literature, history, heraldry, and art, and twelve volumes on Spanish music of the sixteenth and eighteenth centuries, as well as seven volumes of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in their original bindings, and one of colored facsimilies of old manuscripts from the eleventh to the sixteenth centuries.

HYPOCRISY THY NAME IS HARRISON

Sincerity and prohibition are as far apart as the North and South poles of the earth

Hypocrisy and prohibition travel hand in hand like twin sisters.

Christ said, "Woe unto you Pharisees and hypocrites."

On Wednesday, September 14th, Mrs. Asunto Da Prato of Washington, mother of seven young children, was sentenced by Judge R. W. Harrison of Woodland to pay a fine of $500 with a suspended sentence of 60 days in the county jail for selling some wine to Constable Ike Clover of Woodland, and a hired detective.

That evening or rather the following morning at 2 a. m., Judge R. W. Harrison of the sanctimonious and puritanical town of Woodland was arrested for playing craps in the Burns Hotel and two days later paid $100 fine for the offense after pleading "guilty."

The judge, mind you, pleaded guilty of gambling.

Guilty of breaking a State law.

And it was that same judge who on the same day fined the poor mother of seven children $500 for selling some wine to two men who posed as cattle buyers or exhibitors at the State Fair.

And that poor mother does not read or write the English language and probably never heard of the Volstead Law.

Hypocrisy and prohibition travel hand in hand like twin devils.

Come on, Home Alliance and W. C. T. U. Volstead.

INDIGNANT HOME-OWNERS MAKE LOUD PROTEST AGAINST DAMAGING PUBLICITY

When the Sacramento Star posted large placards on the dead walls of Sacramento and Washington yesterday announcing the publication of a serial story on the "Jungles of Yolo," loud protests could be heard on all sides from the home owners and taxpayers of Washington.

Indeed, it was well that no representative of the Star happened to be around, for, Lord knows, what would have happened to him.

The placard measuring about 2½ by 5 feet announced:

JUNGLES OF YOLO

Where thousands of "gay cats," "blanket stiffs" and other hobo types, together with idle workmen "beating their way" in search of a job, spend a night or two on their way in or out of Sacramento.

"The Jungles" is the latest and best story by Reporter Fred V. Williams of the Star. A thrilling adventure story of hobo life, etc.

Many decent, clean and respectable families make their homes in Washington., They resent any such announcements, especially those concerning "gay cats" and "blanket stiffs" and call attention to the nests of "gay cats" that have lately been raided by the police of the Capitol City, even in the business and residence sections of Sacramento.

No matter how clever the story written by Fred V. Williams may be there is a home pride in every family in Washington that must not be dragged in the mire and while the story may not be bad in itself the method of announcing its publication is bordering on an insult, if not absolutely insulting.

The newspapers of Sacramento should say nothing about the "gay cats" of any other community. Christ did not chastise the prostitute nor did her accusers throw rocks at her.

"Blanket stiffs" sometimes have money and many a dollar goes out of the "jungles of Yolo" to the merchants of Sacramento.

As said above, the story may be good, but its method of announcement is bad. Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

GREAT DAMAGE TO ROADS DONE BY TRUCKMEN

On complaint of many farmers in the Clarksburg district, Supervisor Leinberger has taken action to prevent further damage to the county roads in that district.

After he had spent a big sum to build a new oil and crushed rock road in the Clarksburg district, four outside truckmen, according to the officers, completely wrecked the road by hauling overloads. Aroused by a complaint from farmers, the alert Motor Officer Elmer B. Cook slipped down to Clarksburg last Friday and arrested four of the alleged law violators. Cook said that they were each carrying two tons more than the weight allowed by the law.

Officer Cook learned that when the road was first completed, it was as smooth as a paved highway and solid. The trucks could make as fast as 30 miles an hour over it. Friday Cook could not ride his motorcycle over the road faster than 6 miles an hour. "The roadbed is cut to ribbons," said Cook.

Lately more than $3000 had been spent by the county in putting the road in good shape.

The speed cop declared that had he been notified sooner he would have caught the truckmen with greater loads, as the road became so cut up that they had to lighten their cargo. The road is 1 3-4 miles in length. "None of the truckmen ordered into court pay taxes into the county treasury, and all of them have been making big profits hauling sugar beets from Clarksburg," said Officer Cook.

Justice of the Peace George Colby will mete out the sentences. Sentiment against the defendants is strong. The names of the alleged truck law violators follow:

Overloaded trucks—C. A. Carbing of Oakland, F. Anderson of Lower Lake, G. M. Lawrence of San Francisco, Paul E. Burg of Oakland.

The road through West Sacramento is also in terible shape at this writing, scarcely passable for autos or light vehicles.

Nearly all the damage there, too, has been done by truckmen hauling beets to Jefferson station on the Sacramento Short Line.

But the beets must be hauled or left to rot, and the only practical way out seems to be to build better roads.

Retail butchers should not be blamed entirely for the high prices of meats.

They claim they can sell only 17 per cent of each carcass, for house wives only want the best.

In Louisville, Ken., last Sunday the Ku Klux Klan was prevented from holding a meeting by the police.

If that kind of thing keeps up the Klu Klux Klan boys will be martyrs.

NAZAROFF CHILDREN TAKEN FROM FATHER BY JUVENILE COURT

At a night session of the Juvenile Court in Woodland last Monday evening Alice Nazaroff and her 4-year-old brother were taken from the custody of their father after request had been made by the young girl that her father be removed as her custodian.

A week ago she appealed to Constable Buckingham for protection, who placed her with a neighbor, Mrs. Evanoff. Here, too, the girl claimed her father annoyed her and it was then that she appealed to the Juvenile Court of her own volition. When the case was brought before the court Assistant District Attorney John H. Laugenour, who had been investigating the case for several days, learned that the girl was being mistreated. The matter came to a climax when between the hours of 6 and 7 o'clock father and children met in court.

The little girl, of more than ordinary sweetness, strenuously objected to further live with her father, a Russian, who fought for her tiny brother, that he too might be taken away from the turbulent home. During the court proceedings the father went over toward his little son, and it was then that the small girl appealed to the court to save her brother from his parent. She fought with her father openly over the custody of the child, who asked to be permitted to go with his sister, whatever her fate might be.

Judge Anderson took full cognizance of the situation, and although the custody of the boy was not before him in particular, awarded him to the custody of the probation authorities, leaving the irate father childless and absolutely alone. Laugenour stated that the lack of a few links of evidence is all that saves the father from a serious prosecution.

Last Tuesday Judge Anderson made an order committing both children to the Home at Grass Valley

WILKES' PLAYERS ARE ENTITLED TO SUPPORT OF THE PEOPLE

The Wilkes players have created a furore at the Wilkes Theatre, formerly People's, where they are this week presenting the big mystery play, "A Voice in the Dark," to be followed Sunday matinee, Sept. 25th, with a magnificent production of the comedy of youth, "Smilin Through," which has proved the biggest success in recent years. The Wilkes Players are without a doubt the finest organization that has ever appeared in Sacramento and are entitled to the support of the amusement going public.

SEVERAL NEW HOMES UNDER CONSTRUCTION IN WASHINGTON

Since a settlement of building troubles has been arrived at several new homes have been started in Washington, Riverbank and West Sacramento.

Peter Ghelfi has remodeled his home at 4th and William Streets at a cost of over $2000, and has just moved into the finished premises.

Across 4th street another new home is under construction and will be occupied in about two weeks.

On William street the property and home of W. T. Austin has been sold to parties who contemplate building several cottages for rent. The Austin family having moved to Sacramento.

On Fourth street, between Anne and Harriett, the Fourness property has been sold and another home on an adjoining lot is being built.

Several homes are being built in Riverbank and several lots have lately changed hands, indicating an activity not seen for more than a year or since building conditions were unsettled.

All bungalows built by the West Sacramento Co. at neadquarters have been sold to home owners. These are taking active interest in promoting sales of other lots to their friends.

Drop off junk, old tires during Beautification Week

The City of West Sacramento fall "Beautification Week" and tire amnesty days are planned for September 18-23. The spring Beautification Week will give city residents a convenient opportunity to dispose or recycle unsightly residential "junk" and tires at a Tower Court and West Capitol Avenue drop-off site.

."Beautification Week enables the community to get involved in sprucing up the City. At the same time it provides the public with a convenient drop-off location, making it easy to unload unwanted items that may be laying around their homes and apartments," said Don Schatzel, director of the city's parks and community services department.

The event will emphasize the collection of used tires. New state regulations make tire disposal more expensive. Through funding from the California Integrated Waste Management Board, used tires collected during Beautification Week will be completely recycled. Also, city "Youth Diversion" crews will pick up illegally disposed tires from canals and river banks. According to Director Schatzel, Youth Diversion crews "provide community service while becoming educated in the process." Limited pick-up of used tires will be available for those who are unable to take their tires to the drop-off location.

The drop-off site located on the south side of West Capitol Avenue directly past Tower Court will accept, free of charge, most type of oversized residential rubbish (meaning it does not fit in regular trash cans), wood waster (scrap lumber, brush and tree limbs), scrap metal (empty water heater and car parts that do not contain fluids), corrugated cardboard, and used tires. The drop-off location will be open from 4 to 7 p.m., Monday, September 18, through Friday, September 22; and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, September 23.

Officials with the department stress that the activities are available only for residential (non-business) citizens. Also, no household hazardous waste will be accepted at the Beautification drop-off location. However, the Yolo County Central Landfill, located five miles north of the City of Davis on County Road 28H, will accept household hazardous waste on Saturday, September 23.

For additional information on Beautification Week activities, please call the department at 373-5860.

Beauty of the Delta area inspired artwork now showing at library

By Betty Fairbairn Sokolich
Exhibition Chairperson,
East Yolo Friends
of the Library

A drive down the river road reveals many views of the Delta scene which has been an inspiration for many artists. The wealth of colors, textures, and tranquil beauty of the river, flowing passed the small towns and the well-cultivated productive fields of the Sacramento Valley provides the visual elements an artist enjoys. Toni Corbett, a Sacramento artist, now exhibiting her watercolor paintings in the Arthur Turner Library, 1212 Merkley Avenue, West Sacramento, is one of these artists. The quality of light often seen on the delta is portrayed in the paintings, "Delta Morning," and "Delta Evening," with a keenly observed feeling for the different times of the day. "Italian Villa," "Lily Marlene," "Delta I" and "Delta II" are scenes of the places along the way portrayed by Corbett.

"Porch in Greenwood" with the pots of blooming, colorful flowers providing a charming setting on the porch and invites you on the to porch. Perhaps, indoors you will find the "Coffee Break" and see the "Basket of Eggs" so ably painted by Corbett using flowing colors, with fresh clean contrasts. She varies her use of the watercolor medium by using dry brush, washes, and wet-in-wet techniques.

An illustration of the wet-in-wet technique is found in the dramatic "Sonoma Mission." The historical mission building is contrasted against a dark, threatening sky perhaps symbolizing the serenity of the message of the mission against the turmoil of life.

Some of the paintings are small in size but are monumental in impact for the viewer. Still-lifes, such as "Candles with Bottles" and "Last Pear" are pleasant reminders of quiet tranquil days.

The paintings are on exhibit until the end of September and can be viewed during the regular library hours. For information please call 3717-9274, or for hours, 371-5612. The exhibits are sponsored by the East Yolo Friends of the Library.

Currently showing in the "Awash with Color" a juried open watercolor exhibition judged by Julia Cairns, Davis artist, are paintings by Joan Estelle Leed, a large portrait of the model "Julie."

Also accepted is a small watercolor, "Patmos Island" by Betty Fairbairn Sokolich, painted by the artist a few months ago during a trip to Greece.

"Awash with Color" will be on display until October 8 and is open to the public Tuesday through Saturday, 11 a.m., and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

which could be purchased at a reasonable price, Kelleher added.

The search committee has consulted district and city staff and has toured promising sites.

"At this point, we're ready to bring forward a recommendation of several sites we've explored in Southport. We started with ten. The committee ranked the top four, and will be recommending one to the school board Tuesday. If the board doesn't approve that choice, it can choose one of the others."

Kelleher declined to release the top choice during an interview Tuesday, since the school board itself won't receive the information until its weekly agenda report is released on Friday.

But he did outline the general area of the four most promising sites.

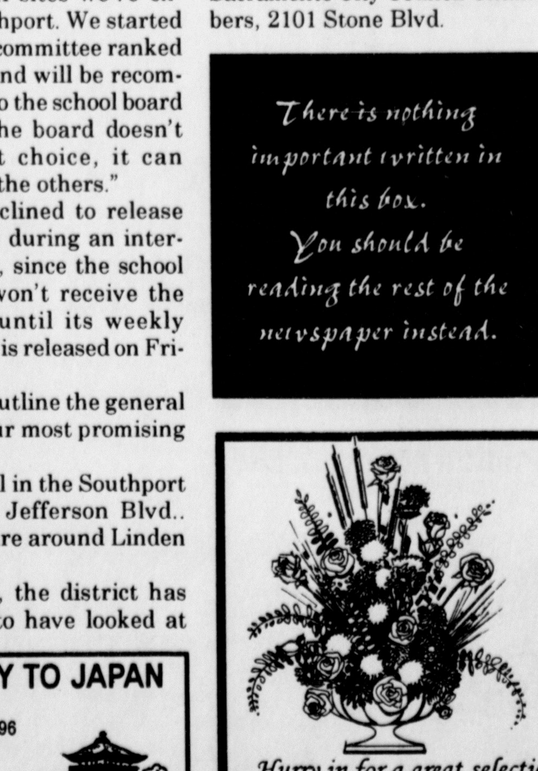

"They are all in the Southport area, east of Jefferson Blvd.. Two of them are around Linden Road."

In the past, the district has been known to have looked at one site close to the Jefferson Bridge and owned by Granite Power and Development, and at another site near Linden Road and Jefferson.

Tuesday's school board meeting will be open to the public and will begin at 7 p.m. in the West Sacramento City Council Chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd.

Commentary from Attorney General Dan Lungren:

Keep kids in school, off drugs

Today's pop-quiz question: Do teens who have dropped out of school use drugs and alcohol more than teens who remain in school? Until now, there had been no way to answer that question with any certainty because no survey of dropouts had ever been conducted. That is why my office joined with three other state departments -- the Department of Education, Department of Health Services and the Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs -- to conduct the state's first-ever survey of drug and alcohol use among teen dropouts. The findings of this comprehensive survey were released earlier this month.

For the past ten years, my office has conducted a statewide survey of alcohol and drug use by students in grades 7, 9, and 11. Until now, the survey reached no farther than the classroom. That is why, for the first time ever, we decided to conduct two surveys: The Biennial Student Survey and a Dropout Survey. With these two surveys, we were finally able to test assumptions and make comparisons between dropouts and students.

Not surprisingly, we found that dropouts reported using drugs at rates which were at least one-and-a-half times the student rates. The differences between dropouts and students increased with level and frequency of use. We also found that student surveys alone underestimated the extent of the substance abuse problem.

Unfortunately -- but again not surprisingly -- we found that school dropouts are more involved in other problem behaviors than their in-school peers. The extent of these problems are so serious that they cannot be overlooked or underestimated.

Among the disturbing findings:

Dropouts were 1.7 times more likely to use marijuana than their in-school counterparts (66.8% vs. 40%);

Dropouts were three times more likely to use methamphetamines than their in-school counterparts (31.6%: vs. 10.1%);

Dropouts were five times more likely to use cocaine or crack than their in-school counterparts (27.5% vs. 4.9%).

Additionally, daily use of drugs and alcohol by dropouts was a great deal higher than students. For instance, dropouts reported daily use of marijuana five times that of the student rate.

We also learned that dropouts were more likely to use drugs and alcohol at an earlier age:

30.5% of dropouts reported that they had been intoxicated from alcohol by the age of 12, while only 16.4% of students reported the same;

38.5% of dropouts had used tobacco by age 12, compared to 20.8% of students;

29.5% of dropouts reported trying an illegal drug by the age of 12, compared to 8.3% of students.

The survey results also indicated that teens who had dropped out of school were involved in more criminal activity, including violence, than students who stayed in school. Dropouts were more likely to sell drugs, be arrested on drug-related offenses or commit crimes to get drugs. We saw that dropouts were more involved in gang activity, physical fights, and carrying or using weapons.

What does all of this mean? At the very least, this information should send an urgent wake up call to society. We should be alarmed by this correlation between drug and alcohol abuse, dropping out of school and destructive behavior. We must work together to help the increasing number of at-risk juveniles before they reach the point of dropping out of school. Once they reach that point, they are in even greater danger of becoming involved in drugs, joining gangs, becoming juvenile delinquents, and thereby becoming an even greater burden on society.

We should be troubled, also, by the indications that in-school teens continue to use drugs and alcohol. While they did not report as much use as dropouts, the bottom line is California students are using drugs and alcohol at alarming rates.

It's clear that we need to address dual problems: teen drug use and school dropouts. Only by combating one will we defeat the other. While I don't pretend to have all of the answers, I will venture to say that this survey clearly shows why arguments for drug legalization are dangerous. It is also fair to say that the current cultural attitude by some elements of Hollywood and others to downplay the dangers of drug use only adds to the problem. It reinforces the idea that drug use is "cool" or "acceptable." By changing our attitudes towards what is acceptable and what is not, we will, in the process, change our kids' attitudes.

We can and should look at what we've done in the past in the area of drug prevention to see what worked at what did not work. In the 1980s, people like Nancy Reagan helped change young people's attitudes towards drugs -- and in the process changed America's cultural attitudes. This message -- that it is "okay" to stay away from drugs -- faded away somewhere along the line. We must bring it back ten times stronger if we want to help our kids live happy, healthy and successful lives.

Let's join together to jump-start our efforts to keep kids in school, and away from drugs and alcohol.
